

Module 1 Diligence in Work

Time 1 Hour

Topic: Diligence in Work	Learning Standards: 1.1.1, 2.3.1, 4.1.3	Lesson Plan: Lesson 14	Core Value: Responsibility
------------------------------------	---	----------------------------------	--------------------------------------

Learning Objectives

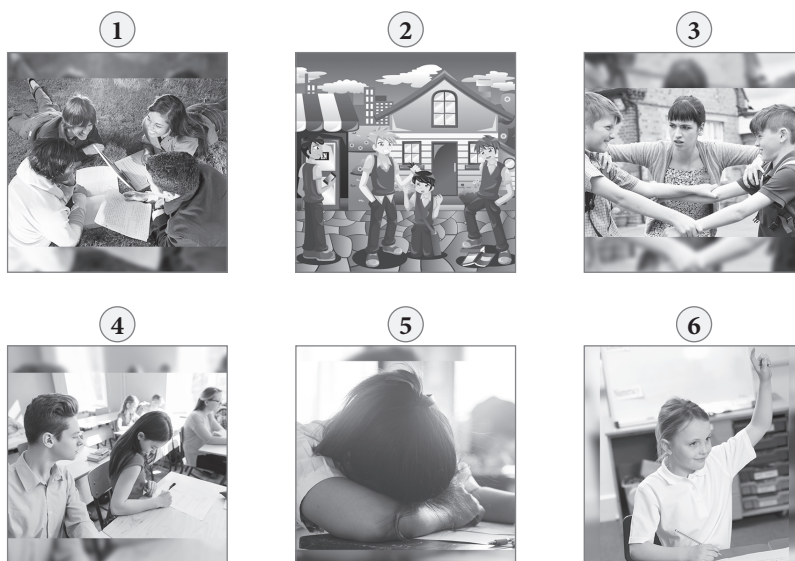

1. Knowledge: List acts of diligence in various aspects
2. Socioemotional: Express feelings of being diligent
3. Action: Practise diligence

Introduction (Suggested for Unit 1)

Being responsible is to be accountable for what you do. At school, being a responsible pupil means taking effort to do your best in your studies and to involve yourself actively in the activities planned out by the school. To be committed in what you do and to give it your all is a sense of responsibility. This value is developed in school and extends to all areas of life when one steps out of school.

Activity 1

Study the pictures below and say which picture shows a responsible act. Give your reasons.

Activity 2

Prepare a sketch:

- Choose one negative attitude in the situations above or any situation you have seen.
- Discuss how you as a responsible student can help to change the attitude of the student.
- Write out your script.
- Act out the scene.

Keeping your environment clean and taking good care of the facilities provided are ways that you can contribute to your country.

Activity 1

Read the report below on how Malaysians have contributed to flood victims.

The Unsung Heroes of Malaysia

While flash floods are not unheard of in Malaysia, the flood situation plaguing West Malaysia is turning into a crisis with more than a hundred thousand Malaysian victims as a consequence. The Star reported that the number of flood victims has reached 119,087.

Social Media Heroes

It is undeniable that social media has helped to inform the public on what is happening, and share about the needs of victims. Netizens are responding to the pleas of flood victims online, sending assistance wherever necessary in response to pleas on social media. The word 'banjir', meaning 'flood' has been tweeted more than 750,000 times. Donations have been pouring in for the flood victims. Netizens have asked for the locations of collection centres to assist in any way possible. It is also through social media that the need for helicopters is expressed, as victims are stranded in places unreachable through land vehicles and require aid using helicopters.
