

Passive Immunity and Active Immunity

- Active immunity means a person's white blood cells can produce its own antibodies in the body whereas passive immunity means a person gains antibodies from outside the body.

